

TORINO AIRPORT: RESTARTING VUELING FLIGHTS TO BARCELONA EL PRAT

The airline connects Turin with the Catalan airport with 2 weekly frequencies

Caselle Torinese, August, 5 2020 - Vueling restarts operations from Torino Airport. The Spanish airline has restored flights to and from Spain starting from August 2, operating the Turin-Barcelona El Prat route.

There are two weekly frequencies for the carrier, which connects Turin to and from the Catalan hub on Friday and Sunday. The flight schedules foresee departure from Barcelona at 2.30 pm and arrival in Turin at 4.05 pm, with departure to Spain at 4.25 pm and arrival at destination at 5.55 pm.

Barcelona represents one of the most important foreign destinations for Torino Airport, confirming itself as the second busiest route in the international segment: in 2019 passengers handled to and from the Catalan destination amounted to 204,380 (an increase of +8.7% on 2018 data), for a total of 1,273 air movements (+4.9% on 2018 data).

"The fact that Vueling is restarting flights to and from Barcelona is a very reassuring signal. This is a strategic and highly awaited flight from our catchment area - commented the CEO of Torino Airport, Andrea Andorno - and it is a further confirmation that international air traffic is beginning to grow volumes in terms of offer " .

"We are really happy to be able to fly back to Torino Airport and offer our customers the opportunity to resume traveling to Europe, always respecting the protection of health and safety for all our passengers" commented Silvana Napolitano, Vueling's Country Manager in Italy.
